This session offers the opportunity to learn from teachers who have been working with Shirley Clarke over the last year. The teachers have been trialling and developing a range of ideas to support Assessment for Learning in their classrooms. Course participants will be able to listen to four aspects of practice during the morning and there will also be time to visit 'stalls' set up by fifteen schools.

Areas covered include: involving pupils in planning; learning objectives; success criteria; questioning; talking partners; quality and feedback (focusing on peer assessment). The Learning Team includes teachers from Foundation Stage, Key Stages 1, 2 and 3 and special schools. The morning will therefore be of interest to a wide range of teachers.

By the end of the course participants will have:

- a range of ideas on developing Assessment for Learning in the classroom
- an opportunity to exchange information with teachers working in a similar setting to themselves
